The politicians in Nevada at first affected to sneer at the Independent movement which is developing itself in that State; but the expression of free sentiment has become so general that they are becoming alarmed. Several counties, through published addresses, have proclaimed their intention of setting politics aside in the choice of public officers, and a goodly portion of the press of Nevada speaks encouragement to the cause. Lander county has just fallen into line. Indications point to an Independent organization in every county in the State before the next election.

VICTORIA AND THE SOUND

Our occasional correspondent sends the following notes of interest under date of the 22d inst:

Business is improving slightly on the Sound.

The crops in British Columbia (the limited varieties they grow) promise well.

Rates of fare on the Fraser river have been materially reduced this season, especially to tourists and pleasure seekers.

Quite a number of new improvements have been inaugurated in Victoria the present season in the way of building, and repairs, improving streets and fitting up generally.

Improvements in a small way are noted at all the Sound ports. A new schooner is being begun at Utsalady, of one hundred tons burthen, making the seventh one completed and on the ways on the Sound this year.

The low rates for parties from Portland to Victoria and vice versa seem to be quite satisfactory to the traveling public via the North Pacific Railroad and the Sound, as a considerable number of Oregon people may be met with almost any trip or boat you take.

The steamers now plying on the sound have all put on their new coats (summer styles) and are brightened up, and especially is this the case with the steamer North Pacific. She has been touched up in fine style with varnish, paint and grained tip top.

The new water pipe for the Victoria water works is expected on some in September and the balance in October next, as it is on the way out from England on two vessels. When completed it will add much to the comfort of residents there, among whom a full supply of pure water has long been desired.

The uncertainty about the Cassiar mines as per last reports has something of a depressing effect on the average Victorian, added to which the unsettled state of the Dominion railway policy in regard to British Columbia, and the supposed design of the Ottawa government to relax the terms of Union as it is called in Victoria.

The citizens assembled en masse on Friday night last, at which the majority of speakers took strong exceptions to the course of the Ottawa Government, and signed a lengthy petition to Her Majesty the Queen to use her influence with the Dominion to carry out in good faith especially that part of the terms pertaining to constructing the railroad to British Columbia.

The London Observer publishes the text of a Home Rule resolve which Dr Butt, member of Parliament from Limerick, proposes to move on the 30th of June in the House of Commons, in substance as follows: That, in the opinion of the House, it is expedient and just to restore to the Irish nation the power of managing exclusively Irish affairs in an Irish Parliament, provision being made at the same time for maintaining the integrity of the Empire by leaving to the Imperial Parliament control of Imperial affairs.

As a multitude were returning on the 21st of June from a grand Te Deum at St. Peter's, the Pope appeared at one of the windows of the Vatican, when hundreds of people waved their handkerchiefs and some ex-Pontifical policemen shouted "Long Live the Pope, our King." Several arrests were made and the troops cleared and took possession of the street. The Pope, in reply to a deputation, said he was confident that God would restore the crown, if not to him, because he was too old and might not live to see the day, then to his successor.

THE NEW COMET

Prof. Lewis Swift has addressed the following letter to the Rochester Democrat:

The comet detected by me on the evening of the 8th inst. was previously discovered at Marseilles, France, April 17. The weather of late has been unfavorable for observations, the clouds demanding the right of way, so that few observations could be made, and even those not with much accuracy. They were enough, however, to prove the correctness of my announcement that it was a comet. It is approaching both the sun and earth with a constantly accelerated velocity, arriving at perihelion (nearest the sun) and perigee (nearest the earth) about the first of August. I see nothing therefore to prevent its being a very conspicuous and beautiful object in the western sky during the months of July and August. It is now situated at 1 o'clock in the morning directly beneath the polar star and about twenty five degrees from it, and is just visible to the naked eye. With an opera glass it can be easily seen as a hazy nebulous mass with a bright point a little to one side. Through my telescope of four and one-half inches aperture, six feet focus, it presents a tail filling the whole field with a low power of thirty six. So directly toward us it is moving it seems almost to stand still, its slight deviation from it giving an apparent motion toward Beta Ursæ Majoris. It is now visible all night, but will soon be only in the early hours of evening, setting in the northwest. If at the time of its nearest approach to the earth the moon should be absent, we may expect from present indications to be treated with a cometary display which may rival the transit of Venus in popular as well as scientific interest. The comet will be brightest on the evening of August 3d, being then 24 times as bright as at the time of discovery, while now it is only 3 times as bright, and as the moon will be absent it will be subjected to spectroscopic analysis under circumstances more favorable than may occur again in many years. It will then be about five degrees from Denebola, the bright star in Leo.

LEWIS SWIFT.

GLOOMY NEWS OF THE WHITE HOUSE WEDDING.—From what we hear Sartoris was not a worthy mate for the daughter of our ruler, but she had abiding confidence and like Naomi she has gone forth with him into a strange land under foreign skies, saying in her simple trusting womanly faith, "Whithersoever thou goest I will go; thy people shall be my people, thy country my country, and thy God my God." We may hope the end may be well, but the truth is of both parties have serious misgivings. There were many funny incidents connected with the invitations. Scores of people among the number four or five who have entertained the young couple had elegant dresses made and were in readiness, but were not called to the feast. The diplomatic corps are disgusted and consider it a very ignorant people. Members and Senators fairly howled, or rather their wives and daughters did, and two thirds of Washington's social world views the wedding through green glasses.—From a woman's letter in the Cincinnati Commercial.

The Arkansas troubles have cost the Government a handsome sum. During the time court was in session, two hundred and ninety three days, the amount paid out for juries, witnesses, Clerk and Marshal was $743,023 75, of which the Clerk and his deputy and the Marshal and his deputies received the snug sum of $582,101 02.

THE INDIANA FARMERS

[illegible] THEMSELVES INDEPENDENT—NOMINATIONS OF STATE OFFICERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—The Farmers' Reform Convention assembled in the Exposition building at 10 o'clock A. M. to-day. About 400 delegates are present. Archibald Johnson, of Montgomery county, was chosen temporary chairman, and J. M. Hyatt, of Henry county, temporary secretary. Committees on credentials, platform, resolutions and permanent organization were appointed.

During the call of the counties for the Committee on the Election of Candidates for State offices a number of delegates refused to participate further unless a platform was adopted before the nominations were made.

A motion prevailed directing the Committee for the Selection of Candidates to withhold their report until a platform was reported.

While waiting for the reports from the committee the convention was addressed by J. A. Ollman, editor of the Liberty Farmer, and [illegible] Colman, of St Louis, and G. W. Gr[illegible], of the National Grange [illegible]. The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That we, the farmers and working men of Indiana, fully determined to command due recognition, indulge, as an expression of our sentiment and purpose, that we are independent.

The Committee on the Platform then made a report, which was unanimously adopted.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported Dr. A. [illegible] Stevenson, of Putnam county, for President of the Convention; one Vice President from each Congressional district, and J. M. Hyatt, of Newcastle, and J. B. Doughty, of Indianapolis, for principal Secretaries.

The Committee on Credentials reported that all credentials had been accepted.

On motion it was resolved that the selection of candidates for State offices be made by counties, and that each county's delegation select a committee man to cast the vote for the county.

The following resolution was then adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense and expression of this Convention that the Committee on Nominations look only to the best interests of the laboring masses, and that in their selection of candidates no heretofore political differences should be made a test of said candidates, but they should look only to honesty and qualifications.

The following is the platform:

In making this call and presuming to enter into competition with existing parties, it is meet that we should give to the world our reasons, as well as the remedies we propose for the wrongs of which we complain.

Starting then with the maxim that our Government is founded on the sovereignty and consent of the governed, and its purpose is to protect property and enforce natural rights, we acknowledge the broad principle that difference of opinion is no crime, and hold that progress toward truth is made by differences of opinion, while the fault lies in the bitterness of controversy.

We desire a proper equality, equity, and fairness, protection for the weak, restraint upon the strong, in short justly distributed burdens and justly distributed powers. These are American ideas, the very essence of American independence, and to advocate to the contrary is unworthy of the sons and daughters of an American Republic. For our business interests we desire to bring producers and consumers, farmers and manufacturers into the most direct and friendly relations possible. We wage no aggressive warfare against any other interests whatever. On the contrary, all our acts and all our efforts, so far as business is concerned, are not only for the benefit of the producer, but also for all other legitimate interests that tend to bring these two parties into speedy and economical contact. Hence we hold that transportation companies of every kind are necessary to our success, that their interests are intimately connected with our interests, and harmonious action is mutually advantageous. We shall, therefore, advocate for every State an increase in every practicable way of facilities for transporting cheaply to the seaboard between home producers and consumers all the productions of our country.

We adopt it as our fixed purpose to open out the channels in nature's great arteries, that the life blood of commerce may flow freely. We are not enemies of railroads, navigable and irrigating canals, nor any corporation that will advance our industrial interests, but are friendly to all laboring classes. But we hold that all class legislation whereby these original and common interests, or the proceeds of the same enhanced by intelligent labor, are perverted from the original design and made to inure to the benefit of non-producers and to the injury of producers, is wrong and subversive of the purpose of good government. That all able-bodied intelligent persons should contribute to the common stock by useful industry a sum or guarantee equal to their own support, and legislation should tend as far as possible to the equitable distribution of the surplus products. If the propositions are true, our Government is wholly subverted from its true design, and the sacred names of Democracy and Republicanism are the synonyms of despotism, and parties represented thereby, as now organized, are engines of oppression crushing out the lives of the people.

We need only point to the facts that in this beneficent country of unlimited resources, with a land annually groaning beneath the products of human effort, the mass of the people have no supply beyond their daily wants, and are compelled from unjust conditions in sickness and misfortune to become paupers. Pauperism and crime are the perplexing questions of all modern statesmanship, and it is with these we have to deal. How far these evils are connected with abuses inflicted on labor, a superficial statesmanship seems not to perceive. Chattel slavery has been abolished, but the rights and relations of labor stand just where they did before the emancipation in respect to division of its products. The difference lies only in the methods of abstracting the results and concentrating them in the hands of a few capitalists. Capital is now master, and dictates the terms, and thus all laborers are practically placed in the same condition as the slave before his emancipation. In thus placing them, the interest of all laborers becomes common, and they must fight the battle in unity if they would succeed. What, then, are the instrumentalities by which these wrongs are inflicted?

First.—Banking and moneyed monopolies, by which, through ruinous rates of interest, the products of human labor are concentrated in the hands of non-producers. This is the great central source of these wrongs, in and through which all other monopolies exist and operate.

Second.—Consolidated railroads and other transit monopolies, whereby all industries are taxed to the last mill they will bear for the benefit of stockholders and stock jobbers.

Third.—Manufacturing monopolies, whereby all small operators are crushed out and the price of labor and products are determined with mathematical certainty in the interest of capital.

Fourth.—Land monopolies, by which the public domain is absorbed by a few corporations and speculators.

Fifth.—Commercial and grain monopolies, speculating and enriching bloated corporations on human necessities. We propose to return the Government to its original purpose and as far as possible to remedy these evils and remove their results, first by abandoning the gold base fallacy and establishing a monetary system based on the faith and resources of the Government of the nation, in harmony with the genius of the Government and adapted to the exigencies of legitimate commerce. To this end circulating notes of national and State banks as well as all local currency be withdrawn from circulation, and a paper currency issued by Government, which shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, duties on imports included, and declared equal with gold, the lawful money of the United States; this currency or money to be interchangeable at the pleasure of the holders for Government bonds bearing a low rate of interest, say 3 65-100; the Government creditors to have the privilege of taking the money, or the bonds, at their election, reserving to Congress the right to regulate the rate of interest on the bonds and the volume of the currency so as to effect the equitable distribution of the products of labor between money or non-producing capital and productive industry, and by paying the national debt in strict accordance with the laws under which it was originally contracted, in gold where it was specifically promised, but all other indebtedness, including the principal of the five-twenty bonds, should be discharged at the earliest option of the Government in legal tender currency of the United States, without funding it in long bonds, or in any way increasing gold paying and untaxed obligations of the Government.

The resolutions further state that the Convention will endeavor to select honest and capable men for office without regard to former political opinions; that no man will be supported who is known to be guilty of bribery, corruption or fraud. One term only is favored from the President down. Free passes are condemned; also legislators, both State and National, who are for the increase of taxes, fees and salaries. They demand a reduction of public expenditures. The remainder of the platform refers to local issues.

The following ticket was nominated: Secretary of State, Nevis S. White, of Vigo county; Auditor of State, Ebenezer Henderson, of Morgan county; State Treasurer, Morris C. Bennett, of Steuben county; Attorney General, James S. Mitchell, of Elkhart county; Judge of the Supreme Court, Horace P. Riddle, of Cass county; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Clarkson Davis, of Henry county.

OREGON UNIVERSALIST STATE CONVENTION

This Convention was organized June 11, 1874, in Linn county, a few miles east of Harrisburg, and held its session during the three following days.

The officers chosen for the year are as follows: President, Rev. A. Harrison, of Union county; Vice President, A. Condra, of Linn county; Secretary, Rev. A. J. Wigle, of Linn county; Treasurer, J. M. Tharp, of Linn county.

Committee of Fellowship and Ordination: Rev. P. A. McAlister, Rev. A. J. Wigle and A. Condra, all of Linn county.

Five other Committees were appointed and the following resolutions passed:

From the day when the fathers of our church submitted a plan of faith and fellowship to this hour no change whatever has been made; therefore be it

Resolved, That we adopt the plan of faith and fellowship known as the Winchester Profession of Faith, as follows:

ART. 1. We believe that the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments contain a revelation of the character of God, and of the duty, interest and final destination of mankind.

ART. 2. We believe that there is one God, whose nature is love, revealed in one Lord Jesus Christ, by one Holy Spirit of Grace, who will finally restore the whole family of mankind to holiness and happiness.

ART. 3. We believe that holiness and true happiness are inseparably connected, and that believers ought to be careful to maintain order and practice good works, for these things are good and profitable unto men.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, The success of our cause in the far west depends upon the earnest and unyielding efforts of both minister and laymen, therefore

Resolved, That we exert all our energies to sustain and carry forward our glorious faith.

WHEREAS, We are constantly called to mourn over the wide-spread evils of intemperance, and the apparent determination of those engaged in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages, to disregard and trample upon, not only the temperance sentiment, but all that concerns the welfare of community, therefore

Resolved, That in the judgment of this convention representing the Universalist Church of Oregon, the traffic in intoxicating liquors as a beverage is contrary to Christian morality, injurious to the Church of Christ, and hurtful to all the best interests of humanity, and should therefore be prohibited by statute in this State.

Resolved, That it is the imperative duty of every Universalist minister residing in this State to attend the annual meeting of this convention, and failing to do so, without some reasonable excuse, he fails to do his duty.

SERVICES.

Religious services were held each day, and on Saturday and Sabbath Rev. Augusta Chapin, of Boston, Mass., a lady preacher, highly esteemed in the denomination in the East, delivered three excellent discourses, full of practical truth and charitable in Christian sentiment.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS TO MISS CHAPIN.

The following resolution was passed concerning her labors:

WHEREAS, Our beloved sister, Rev. A. W. Chapin, has through the kind providence of God been permitted to meet with us in this Convention, therefore be it

Resolved, That we tender to her our heartfelt thanks for her presence and earnest labor bestowed while here, and also offer our warmest sympathy to her and her afflicted brother, praying that our merciful Heavenly Father may restore him to health and prosper her on her journey and in her field of ministerial labor, ever making her a power for good.

The doctors disagreed at first about the disease, but they are all satisfied now. It appears to be in a mild form. Three new cases had broken out, and sixteen or seventeen men have been exposed by sleeping in the room where the first case was before it was positively acknowledged to be the smallpox." The Forest Grove Independent says: "Last Tuesday evening, when the evening train was coming in from Portland, it ran into a flock of Jerome Porter's sheep near this place and killed nineteen of them. Six of them had their heads cut off as clean as though it had been done with a butcher's cleaver. It seems that on the approach of the train they all crowded into the cattle guard, thus making escape from the bloody fate impossible. Thirty of the flock, however, saved themselves by running over the backs of the others."

It has finally transpired that the grant of £30,000 by the Imperial Government for Esquimalt dry dock purposes is a loan of 4 per cent. SATURDAY MORNING JUNE 27 1874

A GOOD CHANCE TO UNLOAD

The [illegible] afflictions which beset the State of South Carolina entitle her to a share in the general feeling of commiseration with which almost every State in the Union just now regards every other State. Her Governor is a thief and a very vulgar thief at that. He makes merchandise of his office, buys and sells "the awful and majestic wrinkles of the State's brow," [illegible] or overpersuades the courts of justice, and manages all the machinery of the government in the sole interest of Franklin J Moses Jr. In the OREGONIAN of Wednesday was published the first chapter in the history of this remarkable individual.

Moses is the ring leader of a gang of lawless politicians who are in all essentials his peers. They are thoroughly organized for the work of pillaging the State and rendering its treasury bankrupt. Conspicuous in this galaxy of knaves stands Richard H Cain, colored Congressman at large. He has been by turns preacher, lobbyist and speculator. Here is a scrap from his biography, furnished by the New York Times:

On the adjournment of the Legislature he returned to Charleston and began speculating very extensively in land. At this time he entered into a written contract for the purchase of a tract of 2,000 acres some ten miles from the city. The first payment on this was to have been made six months after the contract, until which time Cain was not to take possession. Notwithstanding this agreement, however, and not having a deed for the land or paying a dollar of the purchase money, he caused the estate to be divided up into small lots of from two to ten acres each and sold them to colored people who had saved a little money. He stated that he intended to establish a town and that it was to be called Lincolnville. The negroes who purchased the land commenced clearing it and some of them put up small houses. In less than a year, however, Cain not complying with the conditions of the contract he had entered into, the real owners of the property took possession and caused the poor people he had victimized to be ejected. In this way some twenty-five families were deprived of homes. These people made various complaints to the authorities, but as Cain was high in the favor of the State Government, none of the minor officers could be induced to prosecute him.

At the election in November, 1872, Cain was elected Congressman at Large, running on the Republican ticket with Gov Moses. Among all the candidates on that ticket there seems to have been but one honest man—Major Buttz, who was elected State Solicitor, and who is now trying to bring these scamps to justice. Shortly after the election a Grand Jury looked into the transaction above detailed, and at the instance of Buttz found true bills against Cain for cheating and swindling, and for obtaining money under false pretenses. He was arrested. Then the whole State Administration was arrayed against the prosecuting officer to prevent the conviction of Cain. Buttz was finally induced to enter a nolle pros on condition that the money out of which the poor negroes had been defrauded should be refunded. Cain never filled that contract. Shortly after this, Cain was indicted for perjury and for libel. On the day set for the trial he failed to appear. His counsel stated he (Cain) had been elected a Presiding Elder of the Church and that he was then absent from the city in attendance on a Conference. Buttz moved that his bail be forfeited; but the court refused to issue the order. In January the case was again called, and again Cain was absent. This time his Congressional duties would not permit his absence from Washington. Again, also, Buttz demanded that the bail bonds be declared forfeited, and again the court, at the instance of Moses and his adherents, refused. On the 8th day of the present month the case was called for the third time. Cain was absent. His counsel stated that he was compelled to remain in Washington to support the Civil Rights bill. The Solicitor indignantly replied that he had been for more than a year trying to bring Cain to trial, that he had always been thwarted by political influence, and that in his opinion "it was an outrage to allow a man charged with such crimes to sit in Congress making laws, not alone for his own district but for the whole country." The case is now before the Court, while Cain is a candidate for re-election with every prospect of success.

The case of this man Cain is only one of two or three dozens. We have thus briefly summarized the long story of crime and fraud in order to show up as forcibly as may be the corrupt ring which has the Palmetto State by the throat. The condition of the State and the character of the men who fill her offices are epitomized, with appalling emphasis, in the annexed table, showing the number of persons holding public position who have been presented, indicted, or convicted of crime during the past three months:

	Presented	Indicted	Convicted	Total
Governor	0	1	0	1
County Treasurers	1	1	1	3
County Sheriffs	2	[illegible]	0	[illegible]
County Commissioners	10	8	[illegible]	[illegible]
School Commissioners	[illegible]	[illegible]	0	[illegible]
Police Justices	1	0	0	1
Total of all officials				3[illegible]

In this table no account is taken of the crimes charged to office holders prior to election.

Governor Moses is confessedly leader of the Republican party in South Carolina, and now he calls upon his party to "endorse" him by a re-election. The foremost Republican newspaper in the country, the New York Times, boldly counsels the party to crush out the whole gang. It counsels Republican voters to beat him in Convention if possible, but out of Convention if his defeat can not be accomplished by ordinary party methods. It tells them that their duty is to the State first, to the party next. How does this sound to the organs in Oregon who ranted so loudly last September against the right to bolt? At last the right of every man to liberty of conscience in politics is about to be recognized, ex cathedra, as a cardinal principle in political ethics. But will the people of South Carolina overthrow the Moses despotism? We will wait and see.

MODOC WAR EXPENSES

By the provisions of the bill introduced by Mr Nesmith which passed the Senate on the 13th inst and which has been signed by the President, the Secretary of War is required to ascertain or cause to be ascertained the amount of expenses claimed to be necessarily incurred by the States of Oregon and California or the citizens thereof for arms, ammunition, supplies, transportation, and services of the volunteer forces in the suppression of Indian hostilities in those States in the years 1872 and 1873, and report the same to Congress at the next session, together with the names of persons who claim to be entitled to relief, together with a statement of the facts and sums upon which such report may be based. Inspector General Hardie will visit Jacksonville early in July to investigate and report to the Secretary of War upon these claims.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH THE BACK PAY GRABBERS?

Since the adjournment of the Forty-second Congress there has been apparent in that much talked of class, the politicians, a growing disposition to relegate to the charms of private life all those gentlemen who voted for the back pay bill. It was this feeling which formed the basis of President Grant's naive observation in his last Annual Message, "Partisanship has almost wholly disappeared in the agricultural districts." It was this sentiment which occasioned the retirement of that spunky statesman, C N Lamison, of Ohio, who, having declined two calls to resign, said in a Democratic convention the third time, "Resign be blanked. I'll see you in blank first!" It prevailed against H W Parker, that patriotic New Hampshire Democrat who denounced the measure on the stump and drew his back pay on hearing of his defeat in April. The newspapers of Minnesota are now struggling toward a solution of the troublesome question, "What shall be done with the back pay grabbers?" A Congressional election is to be held in that State on the 3d of November, and several gentlemen who supported the odious bill are working for renomination. Among them are Mark H Dunnell, present Representative from the first district, and Gen John T Averill, now member for the second district. Both are Republicans. Their contests afford an amusing lesson in political morals. Thus, the St Paul Press, a radical Republican organ, argues that the prejudice against Mr Dunnell on account of his back pay vote is so strong that he can not possibly be re-elected. It therefore opposes his nomination. But Gen John T Averill's case is different. He voted for back pay to be sure, but then, says the Press, his letter in vindication of his course was admitted by the journals of both parties to have been the best defense of the salary bill ever published. "It was in the high and noble tone of a man who had acted according to his honest convictions and would not stoop to apologize for or excuse what he believed to be right." Somewhat similar to this was the opinion of Hon S Hambleton, a back pay grabber from Maryland, my Maryland, who said in a speech at Austin, Texas, that "he'd be blanked if he'd represent the people of his district unless they paid him enough to live handsomely." His constituents put him on the retired list, without a pension.

It may be that Mr Dunnell, who voted three times for and four times against the bill, should be ordered to the rear, and Mr Averill, who voted seven times for and once against, should be sent "to the head" because he had the hardihood to defend himself on the plea of "honest convictions." But in some parts of those agricultural districts in which partisanship had almost entirely disappeared people have said that the men most wanted in Congress just now are those whose "honest convictions" square with economy and common honesty. Perhaps it may be so in Minnesota.

THE BOUNTY CLAIMS ACT

On the 13th inst the Senate passed the House bill to extend the time of filing claims for additional bounty under the act of July 28, 1866.

By the provisions of the bill the time for filing claims for additional bounty under the act of July 28, 1866, and which expired by limitation on the 30th day of January, 1874, is revived and extended until the 30th of January, 1875, and all claims for such bounties filed in the proper Department after the 30th of January, 1874, and before the passage of the act, (June 13th) are to be deemed to have been filed in due time and are to be considered and decided without refiling.

The New York Herald of the 22d inst says it is rumored that a reconciliation has taken place between Simon Cameron and Colonel John W Forney, and that in political affairs they will hereafter pull together. We can conceive of but one basis on which these eminent patriots could put up such a remarkable job. It is to be hoped that the Colonel did not make hard terms with the old gentleman. For a long time it has been understood that the venerable Senator has been conspiring to put his son J Don Cameron in the seat now occupied by Mr. Scott. Whatever may have been the motives and the terms, the spectacle is one over which angels might very appropriately weep and the average tax payer join in the celestial lamentation.

COST OF THE DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOL SYSTEM

An exchange presents some interesting figures on the subject of the cost of maintaining the denominational public schools of England, which we copy:

A return has been issued by the Education Department of England showing the expenditure from the grant for public education in the year 1873 upon building grants and annual grants to elementary schools and training colleges, and the results of the inspection and examination of elementary schools during the year ending the 31st of August 1873. In England and Wales during the year ending the 31st of March 1873 grants were made to Church of England schools amounting to £757[illegible] to British and Foreign School Society's schools £143,514, to Wesleyan schools £719[illegible], to Roman Catholic schools [illegible], and to board schools £11,287. In annual grants to elementary schools under the new code £329,627 were expended for day scholars, being an increase of £151,[illegible] over the previous year, and for evening scholars £[illegible] being a decrease of £7,[illegible]. The grants to training colleges amounted to £[illegible]6,412.

The expense of administration was £[illegible]0,[illegible].

The number of school houses built during the year 1873 was [illegible], affording accommodation for 61,268 children, and of these [illegible] were national or Church of England schools. The total amount awarded out of the Parliamentary grants for new or enlarged schools was £[illegible] and the total amount subscribed by the promoters £[illegible]. 10,[illegible] schools were inspected and [illegible] children examined during the year by Her Majesty's inspectors.

KEEP FAITH

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Let me suggest to your correspondent [illegible] that if the platform of the People's Nominating Committee, which was endorsed by a majority of the voters of Multnomah county, is to influence and control our members of the Legislature from this county, it most certainly should do this: there will be an attempt at least to enact a law, especially for Multnomah county, fixing the compensation of Sheriff and Clerk in accordance with the platform [illegible]. A general bill reducing the fees very essentially throughout the State, even if it were likely to pass, which would be exceedingly doubtful, because of its effect in the smaller counties, would not meet the expectations of our people in this; for in those counties a considerable reduction of the fees would still leave too high a rate of compensation for the officers named. Five thousand dollars a year each for the Clerk and Sheriff is too much to pay when you can get the most competent persons for such duties at much less than that. There [illegible] let us have a special law for Multnomah county, fixing the salary of Sheriff at $3,000 and Clerk at $3,000 [illegible] and after that [illegible] amount of necessary mileage and the required deputies as named in said platform, the remainder of the fees at such rate as may be specifically given by law to be paid into the county treasury to meet other necessary county expenditures, and in so much reduce the rate of taxation and thereby relieve the tax payers. PLOD [illegible]

CANAL NAVIGATION.—None of the experiments for the invention of machinery to propel canal boats by steam without abrading the banks is deemed entirely satisfactory. The nearest approximation to this desideratum has been made by two discoverers named respectively Newman and Baxter. One of the inventions is that alluded to by an Eastern paper. The Baxter makes the round trip between Buffalo and New York in a little less than two weeks and consumes only 10 lbs of coal to the mile, or probably seven tons for the 900 miles. Its carrying capacity however is not as great as was required by the specifications prepared by the commissioners to examine contesting boats. Cheap transportation on the Erie Canal can only be obtained by enlarging the carrying capacity of boats, increasing their speed and cheapening the cost of running them. To fully accomplish this, however, the canal will have to be enlarged. The inventions which the State has secured by its offer of prizes have solved one half of the problem of cheap transportation and strong efforts are now being made to secure an enlargement of the water way.

NATIONAL PARKS.—One might suppose that the million or so of acres of public land set aside for the Yellowstone National Park would be about all the park we would need for a few years to come. But as the Yellowstone concern is under headway—that is, Congress has fixed up appropriating a couple of hundred thousand dollars for making the preliminary surveys so that we can find out where to begin work—some enterprising Congressmen have gotten up another bill to set apart a certain portion of the Island of Mackinaw as another National Park. In addition to these already proposed we might perfect a grand system of national parks by having one in Florida filled with orange groves, another in Maine in which we could have skating rinks, another in Alaska with an aquarium for fur bearing animals, and one in the southern part of California covered with grape arbors. All these handsomely laid out and connected by drives paved according to climate would furnish the American people with ample means for an afternoon's sport.—Louisville Courier Journal

SATURDAY MORNING JUNE 27 1874

CITY.

UNJUST CRITICISM —We regret to observe in the Mercury of the 25th inst, a very unjust and certainly unwarranted criticism on the performance recently given at Salem by Mrs Phelps. After speaking in a very disparaging manner of the talented manageress, the writer concludes by saying "With one exception the acting was bad, often low and vulgar better fitted for the melodeon than a respectable place of amusement It is just such strolling bands of vagabonds which have made the stage a reproach in our State, etc." This is one or more unjust attacks on the reputation of an acknowledged art ste of high order, and a lady whose private character is above reproach, to say nothing of the other members of the company, could scarcely have been conceived. Such a groundless accusation must surely refute itself and vindicate Mrs. Phelps and her company from the charge of coarseness and vulgarity. In justice to the manageress and the members of the troupe we will state that the company played for nearly two weeks in this city to fair audiences composed of numerous of our most refined and cultivated ladies and gentlemen. From personal knowledge we know that during all that time nothing coarse or indelicate was permitted to be spoken or acted. There was nothing presented which could offend the most fastidious or refined taste. Either the Mercury man must not have been furnished a dead head ticket, or else the limits of his modesty exceed the average bounds allotted to mortals. Mrs. Phelps has been very grossly misrepresented, either through ignorance or malice, and—and those who know that lady best will cheerfully bear testimony to the truth of what we have said.

LIST OF PASSENGERS.—The steamer John L Stephens which sailed from this port yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, carried away the following passengers: Bishop Edwards, [illegible], L P Dunn, H Rosenfeld, H [illegible] T L Lyon, J Odem, T. M. Hines, [illegible] A Montgomery and wife Geo [illegible] & Austin and daughter, Mrs M A [illegible] and servant, Mrs N Negley, Mrs H [illegible] and wife, Dr J S Leffingwell and wife [illegible] and wife, J Effinger, wife and child, Miss Lydia Rodney, Miss Clem Rodney, Miss [illegible], Miss Maria Clopton, Miss Yarndley, [illegible] Mrs T B Morris and servant, Bishop Morris and 2 children, Rev Miss [illegible] Miss Mary Morris, Jas Bolton and child, M Jacobs, R. K. Swan, A [illegible] Mrs. A. Fishel and servant W L [illegible] D Coats Wm Ketcham, A Green, [illegible] Mrs J Hurd, L Carver, Sir [illegible] H J Gates, Col Bee and wife [illegible] Rockwell, S R Irwin, Mrs J M [illegible], Mrs Quinn two Sisters of Charity, [illegible] H. L. Chapin wife and servant [illegible] W F & Co.'s Messenger and 50 [illegible].

THE QUADRUPLETS —The evening cotemporary gives an account of a married lady living in the northern end of the city who recently gave birth to four infants the united weight of which is 45½ pounds. The first in [illegible] 15 pounds the second 11 pounds [illegible] 10 pounds and the fourth 9½ pounds [illegible] concludes by saying: "We make [illegible] somewhat reluctantly, for the reason that after the fact becomes generally known young men are liable to banish from their minds all thoughts of matrimony, and married men are apt to think there is something wrong with the climate, and give Oregon a wide berth in seeking homes!" Being de[illegible] four infants we should say was a decidedly "wide b(i)erth," not to express it in [illegible] able language By the way, we strongly suspect some practical wag [illegible] had our friend. Particulars of the natal event are furnished with a nicety, in [illegible] accuracy, but William's confidence is [illegible] abused. Show your documents on [illegible] story

FASHION NOTES.

Rubber jewelry is again fashionable

Nearly all the summer silks are in stripes

Skirts of new costumes are to clear the ground

The fashionable umbrella for ladies is of blue silk

The newest sashes are of brocade silk with long fringed ends

Henrietta cloth is considered the deepest and nobbiest mourning

Brazilian bugs handsomely mounted are the newest head ornaments

A fashion journal suggests that widows can not wear too much crape

Jet necklaces with large locket of the same are becoming fashionable

One of the new collars is called the Empress It is of linen edged with lace

Breakfast sacques of white silk mull lined with pink or blue silk will be fashionable this summer

Gray woolen suits trimmed with dark violet are greatly in favor with young ladies especially with blondes

Between her ruff and the white frill inside her hat the fashionable belle peeps out like a chicken coming out of the shell

The Boston ladies still talk dress reform meanwhile they stun in summer style strolling just to show how shocking they are you know

Little boys still in petticoats wear deep square or sailor shaped collars of percale pink and blue with white in stripes or spots with corded or scalloped edges More dressy collars of these shapes are shown in antique and guipure laces to be worn with handsome costumes

Worth's newest fancy is to concentrate on black silk walking costumes all the trimming on the front width of the skirt and back of the waist It is an economical whim at all events for the front width can be taken out and inserted in every new dress A word to the wise &c

Conch shell buttons have just been introduced and are very ornamental on black silk white and colored morning dresses They are made of the inner lining of the conch shell are of an exquisite pink hue are slightly concave and look like the petals of a blush rose Though fragile looking they are very strong

The solitary glove button is useful to ladies who by accident or intention buy gloves that are too small for their hands The solitaire button has a shank that passes through the first button hole draws it nearer to the button it cannot meet and the solitaire is then hooked over the glove button and thus improves the slovenly appearance of an unbuttoned glove

A fashionable fan is of Russia leather in the Pompadour shape cut in points on top It is very cleverly embellished with gilt and has the owner's monogram or initials on either side These fans were manufactured for the Vienna Fair last summer, and like other things exhibited not sold Consequently they have been sent to America, where they sell like the traditional hot cake

Normandy caps have become so common that muslin caps for children of fashionable people are now changed in shape The newest are little bonnets with medium low square crowns of plain muslin while their embroidered brims are turned straight up behind and down in front Blue shirred silk is beneath the scalloped brim, and blue ribbon is passed around the crown and tied in a cunning bow behind

According to the Court Journal afternoon teas, served à la Russe are the fashion abroad The special feature is the substitution of slices of lemon for cream in the tea On the tea tray is served a small glass dish containing sliced lemon with the rind on. Into the cup is dropped first a diminutive bit of sugar—moderation in this is essential or the flavor of the lemon is destroyed—on the sugar is then deposited a slice of lemon on which the tea is poured

Gray linen suits are made with cool looking loose double breasted English jackets and long apron skirts A bias band piped with brown or blue trims the jacket a similar band and side plaited ruffle is on the overskirt while the walking skirt has two plaitings The buttons are of gray linen set in a sort of binding of horn or bone blue, white brown or black to match the pipings The suit of these three pieces costs $12 or $14 For the house the two skirts are worn with a white plaited blouse waist

Sheriff Twilight of Astoria arrested one James Frisky a fisherman on the lower Columbia river, on Wednesday last It appears that on the evening previous Frisky, while fishing was overhauled by one of Astoria's fishermen, who was drifting faster than Frisky [illegible] seeing Astoria's man was likely to run through his drift called out to him "You ——— if you raise my net I'll blow the top of your head off" and almost immediately fired without giving the other a chance to haul his net off or waiting to see if he intended to do so Fortunately the ball missed the man, who made his way to the fishery of Clark Bros for whom he was fishing and subsequently took out a warrant for the arrest of the would be homicide Frisky was examined before a Justice of the Peace The evidence of several fishermen witnesses of the affair was such that the prisoner was held to answer in the sum of $1 000

CITY.

AN UNJUST CRITICISM.—We regret to observe in the Mercury of the 26th inst a very unjust and certainly unwarranted criticism on the performance recently given at Salem by Mrs. M. Phelps. After speaking in a very disparaging manner of the talent of the managers the writer concludes by saying "With one exception the acting was bad, often low and vulgar, better fitted for the [illegible] than a respectable place of amusement. It is just such strolling bands of vagabonds which have made the stage a reproach in our State," etc. A coarser or more unjust attack on the reputation of an acknowledged artist of high order and a lady whose private character is above reproach, to say nothing of the other members of the company could scarcely have been [illegible]. Such a groundless aspersion [illegible] will refute itself and vindicate Mrs. Phelps and her company from the charge of coarseness and vulgarity. In justice to the lady and the members of the troupe we will state that the company played for nearly two weeks in this city to fair audiences composed of numerous of our most refined and cultivated ladies and gentlemen. From personal knowledge we know that during all this time nothing coarse or indelicate was permitted to be spoken or acted. There was nothing presented which could offend the most fastidious or refined taste. Either the Mercury man must not have been furnished a dead head ticket or else the limits of his modesty exceed the average bounds allotted to mortals. Mr. Phelps has been very grossly misrepresented—either through ignorance or intentionally—and those who know that lady best will cheerfully bear testimony to the truth of what we have said.

LIST OF PASSENGERS.—The steamer John L. Stephens which sailed from this port yesterday at one o clock for San Francisco, carried away the following passengers: Bishop Edwards, [illegible] Elliott, L P Dunn, H Rosenfeld, H [illegible]well, T L Lyon, J Odem, T M Hines, [illegible] Stagg, A Montgomery and wife, Geo [illegible] S Austin and daughter, Mrs M A [illegible] and servant, Mrs N Negley, Mr H [illegible] and wife, Dr J S Leffinwell and wife, [illegible] and wife, J Ettinger wife and child, [illegible] Lyons Rodney, Miss Clem Rodney, Miss [illegible], Miss Maria Glopten, Miss Yarndley, [illegible] Breck, Mrs T B Morris and servant, [illegible] Bishop Morris and 2 children, Rev Miss [illegible] Chapin, Miss Mary Morris, Jas Hol[illegible] wife and child, M Jacobs, R K Swan, A [illegible], Mrs A Fishel and servant, W J [illegible], D Coats, Wm Ketchum, A Green, [illegible] J L Cack, Mrs J Hurd, J Carver, [illegible] Douglas, H J Gates, Col Bee and wife, [illegible] Rockwell, S R Irwin, Mrs J M [illegible], Mrs. Quinn, two Sisters of Charity, [illegible] Crosby, H L Chapin wife and servant, [illegible] Brannell W F & Co's Messenger and 50 steerage.

FOUR QUADRUPLETS.—The evening cotemporary gives an account of a married lady residing in the northern end of the city who recently gave birth to four infants the united weight of which is 45½ pounds. The first one weighed 15 pounds, the second 11 pounds, the third 10 pounds and the fourth 9½ pounds. The reporter concludes by saying "We make this statement somewhat reluctantly for the reason that after the fact becomes generally known young men are liable to banish from their minds all thoughts of matrimony and married men are apt to think there is something wrong with the climate, and give Oregon a wide berth in seeking homes." Being descended of four infants we should say was—"[illegible] birth" not to express it in more objectionable language. By the way we very strongly suspect some practical wag has victimized our friend. Particulars of the above event are furnished with a nicety in regard to accuracy, but Williams's confidence is [illegible] abused. Show your documents [illegible].

DEATH OF NELSON NORTHRUP.—This well known gentleman departed life in Portland [illegible] day at the residence of his son, E J [Northr]up, in the 65th year of his age. Mr. [Northr]up was one of the old pioneers of Portland. He came to this city in the year 1851, [and] soon after became one of the firm of [Northr]up & Simonds, well known merchants [of th]ose days. In 1854 the firm of Northrup [& Si]monds leased of their business to E J [Northr]up and J M Blossom and removed to [illegible] taking into that port the second vessel [from] Portland. Mr Northrup remained at [Coos] Bay for several years and on the mean[time] opened up at great expense the first coal [mine] in that locality now so famed in that [line]. In a few years subsequent the firm of [Northr]up & Simonds dissolved. Since then [the] subject of this notice has resided principally [in] this city. Prior to his death Mr North[rup] has been confined to his bed for about six weeks.

THE CELEBRATION.—General arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July in [East] Portland are nearly completed. Hon J [illegible] VanCleave will be President of the day; [illegible] Thayer Esq will deliver the oration; [illegible] W Kelly will read the Declaration of [Indepen]dence, and Rev Clinton Kelly act in [capacity] of Chaplain. The East Portland [Infan]try first Infantry bands have been engaged for the occasion; several of the military [companies] of this city will join in the procession, and as a large sum of money has been [raised], looking to that end, the display of [fireworks] in the evening will be a very pleasant sight. The Park is also to be [illegible] [illegible]ated.

FROM FORT HARNEY.—John Bubn and [illegible] [ot]hers arrived in the city last week from [Fort] Harney by way of the Santiam trail. [They] came over with five teams. Considerable quantities of snow were found on the [summit] of the Cascades which occasioned [a] delay several days being required to get [the] wagons and teams through it. The party [inten]d to return to Fort Harney in a few [days] by the same route.

[Applic]ants must present themselves at the [time in]dicated, and provide themselves with [writ]ing material.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The weekly [meeting] on Sabbath evening will be held in [the] First Congregational Church. Rev Mr. [illegible] Hyne, Post Chaplain at Fort Vancouver, [Rev] A H Bradford and others are expected [to] address the meeting.

[MUSIC] MUSIC.—The City Band will discourse [the foll]owing programme this evening at the [Park]: Amazones March, Reinicke; Here [illegible] Danaen Walzer, Kesler; Over[ture] [illegible] Verdi; Klockenspiel Polka, Knoller; [illegible] Galop, Herzog.

[Rev] T B Van Horne, Post Chaplain at [Vancouver] will preach at the Baptist Church [tom]orrow morning at the usual hour of ser[vice]. It is expected that Mr. Van Horn will [address] the Union Temperance Meeting at [the Congre]gational Church in the evening.

At a regular convention of the K of P held at their Castle Hall Thursday evening June 25th the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: [illegible] Wilcox, C C; [illegible] C Sears, V C; Chris P Yates, P [illegible].

One of the picknickers from Oregon City, a gentleman whose name we were unable to learn, was severely cut about the face yesterday by a swing in the Park striking him. Dr Rafferty was called and rendered all needed medical aid.

An exchange propounds this: "Why is it that the young man about town always considers it necessary to grin when he talks to the other sex?" Why can't he observe that it's a lovely night or ask for a glass of water with out giggling like an idiot?

A number of hoodlums were trying their luck buying polish of the corner man last night—every other box containing double the amount charged for a box—of course. The boys need polishing but we don't think they will make their fortune by investing in catch penny medicine, &c.

Figures and type don't lie unless they are wrongly manipulated, but errors will occasionally creep in. In speaking of the new barge now being constructed by the O S N Co for purposes of lightering we were made to say that the length of the craft was 108 when it should have been 142 feet. The builder declares that 34 feet makes considerable difference in the length of a boat and we can't deny the proposition.

BASE BALL NOTES.

The Arcadians and Pioneers have been challenged by the Eagles of Vancouver.

No game to day—the College Club being unable to come down on account of the illness of Mr Belt, pitcher of the first nine.

We clip the following from the Statesman relative to the game at Salem on Thursday: The Arcadians arrived on the morning train and were met at the depot by the College Club. It was agreed to commence playing at four o clock. The visitors were provided with a substantial dinner at Hellenbrand's Restaurant, the Salem boys acting as hosts for the occasion. The exercises being over at the University by [tw]o o clock P M a number of those in attendance visited the base ball ground to witness the game. The crowd was a large one and graced with the presence of a number of the fair sex who cheered their favorites on with as much gusto as did the sterner sex. The score speaks for itself. The Arcadians played a good game but the College Boys played a still better one. They whitewashed their visitors four times and managed to escape a like calamity themselves. The game was played in about two hours and [illegible] watched with interest by a large crowd until the close. The [um]pire's decisions were in general things satisfactory and good feeling prevailed throughout the game. The following is the score:

AMUSEMENTS.

A splendid house greeted the favorite Little Mid last evening the occasion being his benefit. The beneficiary was happier than ever during the performance and appeared in his essence, which is entirely original with the little fellow. His make up of the baby elephant was complete and it proved to be one of the best things he has attempted here. Bobby Newcomb was livelier than usual last night. His "time" we have not seen excelled. He was called out when he told a witty story at the same time tearing a paper to pieces apparently but really making a tidy pattern which was neatly done. Knight appeared in his specialities in his accustomed style. Welch and Rice improved at each performance and as per consequence are called out several times. Their singing and dancing last evening was the best they offered since the opening. Of the singing by Russell, Baker and Harley nothing need be said. It has been first class as all who have heard them can testify. Sweatnam and Reed did their funny business as usual and kept the audience in good humor. The minstrels play this afternoon when the admission price will be fifty and twenty five cents. To night they appear for the last time prior to a trip to the capital where the appear Monday and Tuesday evenings. On Wednesday and Thursday they reappear at Oro Fino Theater for the last time as they leave for San [Francisco] on the steamer on Friday.

RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS.

Messrs Jas G Holland, Wm Forbes and Ruben Herman, Sub Committee appointed in San Francisco to solicit aid for the Louisiana sufferers have addressed the following letter to John J Valentine, Esq, General Superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co:

Dear Sir: We on behalf of the Executive Committee of the Fund for the relief of the Sufferers by the Overflow of the Mississippi River respectfully beg leave to suggest that you may [illegible] the various Agents of your Company throughout the [illegible] States and Territories of the Pacific [coast] [illegible] their personal efforts and influence in obtaining donations of money [illegible] that Fund.

The great calamity which day after day is bringing [illegible] to our fellow [illegible] [illegible] is [illegible] known [illegible] [illegible] that we feel [illegible] [illegible] appeal to them for their generous [co]operation in this great work of charity will be [illegible] with alacrity.

In response to the above Mr Valentine has addressed the following letter to all the Agents and employees of the company on this coast:

The foregoing explains itself. Your prompt and generous response to all appeals in behalf of the afflicted and distressed assures us of your hearty sympathy and cooperation in this instance. The privation of the sufferers by the flood is extreme as shown by the following telegram:

CLOSING EXERCISES AT THE OREGON CITY SEMINARY

The Oregon City Seminary closed on the 24th inst for the summer holidays. A large number of the parents and friends of the pupils together with the Mayor and the majority of the City Council were present to witness the closing exercises which consisted of declamations and the reading of original compositions. Most all pieces selected for declamation were well spoken and the compositions read reflected great credit on the pupil and showed that a good deal of care and attention has been paid to the cultivation of this most useful branch of education. The essay prepared and read by Miss Rose who is the only graduate of the Institution this year was a most interesting and able production both in style and matter and reflects great credit on the fair young writer. At the close of the exercises addresses were delivered by the Mayor and other gentlemen present. The Mayor, Mr M Cowen in a very touching and eloquent manner complimented the pupils in their progress and congratulated the teachers on the high degree of order and the moral tone that prevail. Farewell addresses were delivered by Profs. Macrum and Morelend who have resigned their positions. The former to commence the practice of law in this city, the latter to engage in other business. The citizens of Oregon City owe a lasting debt of gratitude to these gentlemen for the able and conscientious manner in which they have discharged their duties as teachers, and to the efforts which they put forth in raising the school to its present excellent standard of efficiency. Mr Nicholson has had charge of the Mathematical Department for the past two year. He is a graduate of a Normal school and has obtained the highest honors in the profession of teachers from the Departments of Public Instruction of California and this State. His assistants for the ensuing year are Prof. Randall, Mrs Kate Hunsiker and Mr Chenowetl.

THE STAGE.

The Lopez Family are at Pittsburg, Penn.

John Wilson's Circus was at Marysville, California on the 17th inst bound north.

Milton Nobles years ago at the Oro Fino is to be leading man at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia.

This is rich. The Yreka Journal of the 17th says: The Vieuxtemps Brothers gave a concert at Kessler's Hall [illegible] day which was largely attended and gave very general satisfaction. Both are superior violinists and sang many standard pieces of great merit. One of the brothers being one of the best musical artist we have ever listened to and especially in his solos on the melodeon with his eyes blindfolded. Their vocal and instrumental music was loudly applauded.

FASHION NOTES.

Ribbon jewelry is again fashionable.

Nearly all the summer silks are in stripes.

Skirts of new costumes are to clear the ground.

The fashionable umbrella for ladies is of blue silk.

The newest sashes are of brocaded silk with long fringe [illegible].

Henrietta cloth is considered the deepest and most mourning.

[illegible] are the newest [illegible] ornaments.

[illegible] suggests that [illegible] can [illegible]

[illegible] with [illegible] of [illegible] fashionable.

[illegible] is called the [illegible] will [illegible].

Breakfast sacques of white [illegible] lined with pink or blue [illegible] will be fashionable this summer.

Gray woolen hats trimmed with dark violet are greatly in favor with young ladies [illegible].

Between the ruff and the wide full muslin that the [illegible] [illegible] like a chicken coming out of the shell.

The Boston [illegible] still talk dress reform [illegible] walking [illegible] [illegible] style [illegible] tucking they are you know.

Little boys still in petticoats wear deep square [illegible] and lined with white [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of these [illegible] shown in antique and guipure laces to be worn with hand some costumes.

Worth's newest [illegible] in black silk walking costumes [illegible] trimming in the front width of the skirt and back of the waist. It is economical when at all events for the front width can be taken out and inserted in every new [illegible]. A word to the wise, &c.

Coach shell buttons have just been introduced and are very ornamental on black silk, white and colored trimming dresses. They are made of the inner lining of the conch shell, are of an exquisite pink hue, are slightly concave and look like the petals of a blush rose. Though fragile looking they are very strong.

The solitary glove button is useful to ladies who by an accident or intention buy gloves that are too small for their hands. The solitaire button has a shank that passes through the first button hole and twisted in order to that button cannot meet and is then hooked over the glove button and improves the slovenly appearance of an unbuttoned glove.

A fashionable fan [illegible] of Russia leather in the Pompadour shape cut in points on top. It is very cleverly embellished with gilt and has the owners monogram or initials on either side. These fans were manufactured for the Vienna [illegible] last summer and like other things exhibited [illegible] Consequently they have been sent to America where they sell like the traditional hot cake.

Nainsook [illegible] have become so common that muslin caps for children of fashionable people are now [illegible] [illegible]. The new [illegible] are little bonnets with the high low square crowns of plain muslin with their embroidered brims are turned straight up behind and down in front. Blue [illegible] silk is beneath the scallops of the brim and the ribbon is passed around the crown and tied in a bunching bow behind.

According to the Court Journal afternoon teas served [illegible] are the fashion abroad. The special feature is the substitution of slices of lemon for cream in the tea. On the tea tray is served a small glass dish containing sliced lemon with the [illegible] on. Into the cup is dropped first a diminutive bit of sugar—moderation in this is essential or the flavor of the lemon is destroyed—on the sugar is then deposited a slice of lemon on which the tea is poured.

Gray linen suits are made with cool looking loose double [illegible] jackets and long apron skirt. A band [illegible] piped with brown or blue trims the jacket, a similar band and side plaited ruffle is on the overskirt, while the walking skirt has two plaitings. The buttons are of gray linen set in a sort of binding of horn or bone blue white brown or black to match the pipings. The suit of these three pieces costs $12 or $14. For the house the two skirts are worn with a white plaited blouse waist.

ASTORIA ITEMS

At 12 o clock to day (Thursday) the new steam yacht (propeller) built by Mr J Rutter for Capt Hustler & Co was successfully launched in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen assembled to witness the interesting sight. The last wedge being removed the beautiful craft glided gracefully from the ways and as she touched the bosom of the briny deep Mrs Emma C Hughes of Portland with the customary bottle of champagne thrown on the bow christened her the Katata, naming her after the venerable old Chief of the Clatsop tribe of Indians well known to the numerous visitors to the Seaside. The Katata is intended by her owners to be run between Astoria and Fort Stevens, Cape Disappointment [illegible] for the especial accommodation of parties desirous of visiting the [illegible] during the summer season and will connect with the river steamer from Portland. She is a handsome yacht built in the gondola style, strongly built of Oregon pine with stem and stern of oak and will prove herself the [illegible] of the [illegible] she may encounter. Her speed will not be less than ten knots an hour as she has a splendid marine engine constructed expressly for her [illegible] by Mr Baker of San Francisco, one of the [illegible] engineers in the [illegible]. It is sixty-six [illegible] and with water [illegible] only weighs 600 pounds. Her dimensions are [illegible] feet keel, ten feet beam, [illegible] length over all sixty feet, estimated registered tonnage fifteen tons measurement twenty one. Her cabin is twenty feet long five feet wide, has open sides which will be protected by canvas curtains and will accommodate thirty passengers or more. Her draught is two feet fore and three and a half aft. The increase of travel to the many points of interest both for business and pleasure in the neighborhood of Astoria which has rendered the construction of this vessel (in addition to the numerous small steamers and sailing craft already in these waters) necessary is another evidence of the growing importance of this town and will be gratifying to all well wishers for the prosperity of our fair young State. In a few days the Katata will run up to Portland to receive her finishing touch after which your citizens will have the pleasure of witnessing her trial trip.

Sheriff Twilight of Astoria arrested one James Frisky a fisherman on the lower Columbia river on Wednesday last. It appears that on the evening previous, Frisky, while fishing was overhauled by one of Astoria's fishermen who was drifting faster than Frisky. Frisky seeing Astoria's man was likely to run through his drift called out to him "You —— —— if you run me out I'll blow the top of your head off" and almost immediately fired without giving the other a chance to haul his net in or waiting to see if he would do so. Fortunately the ball missed the man whom it was [illegible] to the fishery of Clark [illegible] for whom he was fishing, and subsequently took out a warrant for the arrest of the would be homicide. Frisky was examined before a Justice of the Peace. The evidence of several [illegible] witnesses of the affair was such that the prisoner was held to answer in the sum of $1,000. H.

THE BEECHER TILTON SCANDAL.—Brooklyn, June 22.—The Beecher Tilton case has been partially revived. Theodore Tilton offered last week to waive the plea of honorary membership in Plymouth Church and to appear before its Examining Committee for trial on the charge of slandering Beecher. This proposition has been declined. It is understood that Dr Bacon of New Haven has the whole matter under consideration, and will shortly give his views on the subject. Lowell

UNFINISHED STILL

A baby's boot, and a skein of wool
Faded and soiled and soft
Odd things you say, an I no doubt you re right
Round a seaman's neck this stormy night
Up in the yards aloft

Most like it's folly but mate look here
When first I went to sea
A woman stood on the far off strand
With a wedding ring on the small soft hand
Which clung so close to me

My wife God bless her! The day before
She sat beside my foot
And the sunlight kissed her yellow hair
And the dainty fingers deft and fair
Knitted a baby's boot

The voyage was over I came ashore
What think you found I there
A grave the daisies had sprinkled white
A cottage empty and dark as night
And this beside the chair

The little boot 'twas unfinished still
The tangled skein lay near
But the knitter had gone away to rest
With the babe asleep on her quiet breast
Down in the churchyard drear

LEONE'S ROMANCE

"Mark my words Leone your beau ideal you ll never find your estimate of a man is too high"

"No, Arthur it is but a great estimate and you have no right to judge me harshly because I would not throw my life away upon some society man to-day I am young yet but twenty, you know, and there is time enough yet"

"Yes, time enough, Leone but I agree with Arthur that you have too high a standard of manhood, a romantic school girl admiration of qualities that few, if any may possess"

"Complimentary, very to your husband sis, but I wish for my husband strength either of soul or body mind far above the average and determination and purpose sufficient to raise him from the level of the human herd and mark me, if I never find such a one I will ever remain Leone Lightfoot, an old maid fond of tea, cats and gossip, but I see Charles has brought my horse around, so au revoir"

The speaker was a woman of twenty queenly in form, and whose face though possessing character beyond her years stamped thereon, was radiant with loveliness

Robed in a dark-blue riding habit, which clung gracefully around her superb form, and the face half shaded by the drooping plumes falling from her jaunty cap, Leone Lightfoot was indeed what she appeared—a surpassing lovely women, one who had visitors by the score, for she was rich as well as accomplished and beautiful

Three years before she had been left, by the death of parents, under the guardianship of her only brother, some ten years her senior, and at his elegant country seat in New York state she had lived, the idol of society and the pet of Arthur Lightfoot and his pretty but weak little wife

Between the three, Arthur Lightfoot, Leone and Mrs Lightfoot, was the conversation held that opens this story, and the cause thereof was the refusal by Leone of the heart hand and fortune of a worthy bachelor neighbor

"She is incorrigible the old judge would have made her a good husband," said Arthur Lightfoot to his wife, after they had seen Leone mount and dash away at full speed down the grand avenue.

"Yes, she ll never marry, I fear,' sighed Mrs Lightfoot, who always echoed the sentiments of her husband

In the meantime Leone rode on at a pace that chimed in with her humor; and an elegant horsewoman, she held her steed well in rein and enjoyed the springing, fleet motion as mile after mile was cast behind

But suddenly her horse shied violently and gave a tremendous leap, almost unseating his fair rider, who, recovering herself quickly, spoke soothingly to the frightened animal, and glanced backward to note the object that had so startled him

The color fled from her face as her eyes fell upon the form of a man lying by the roadside, and apparently lifeless, but nerving herself by a hard-drawn sigh, the brave girl sprang to the ground and approached the spot, glancing intently down into the pale upturned face.

The features were moulded with remarkable regularity, the partly opened mouth displayed even, white teeth, and the dark brown hair and mustache presented a marked contrast to the white face, from which every tinge of color had faded Dressed in a light summer suit, Leone even then discovered that it was well and stylishly made, while the gauntlet gloves and riding whip proved that the stranger had been on horseback

"He has been thrown, doubtless, but God grant he is not dead!" exclaimed the maiden, as she knelt beside the prostrate form, and drew aside the coat to place her hand upon his heart.

With a cry of terror she sprang to her feet, her hand stained with blood, for from his side a stream welled up slowly

"He is dead, and has been murdered—'

"No"

It was almost a whisper, and the heavy lids raised from the dark eyes—eyes filled with anguish, but strangely dark and fascinating

"Thank God, there is yet hope, be quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will aid you all in my power,' exclaimed Leone, and drawing her habit around her she ran rapidly a few paces down the road to where it was crossed by a small stream and saturating her handkerchief returned, and without hesitation drew aside the clothing and placed it upon the wound—a small bullet wound in the left side over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet, and I will soon return," she said softly, hardly knowing whether she was heard or not, and then in an instant she was in her saddle, dashing at her utmost speed towards the nearest farm house

Dashing like the wind up to the door, and startling quiet Farmer Jessop and his family, nearly out of their wits, Leone cried

"Mr Jessop, let your son ride at once to Dr Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the road near Hillside Spring; tell him to come there at once, and you, Mr Jessop, please come on with your carriage, and bring all that you think is necessary"

Every one in the country knew and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly her orders were obeyed, observing which, she wheeled her foaming horse, and again sped away on her return to the wounded stranger

There he lay just as she had left him but groaning slightly, and each instant, dampening the blood-stained handkerchief, the girl awaited the coming of the surgeon

Would they ever come? she thought but at length, when it seemed hours instead of minutes, the sound of wheels broke on her ear, and the next instant the surgeon drew up at a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss Lightfoot, and if this man lives he owes his life to you," said the good old physician as he approached and knelt beside the prostrate form,

"But will he live doctor?"

For some minutes no reply was given by the man of science, who carefully probed and examined the wound, but then he said slowly

"It is a serious injury—ha! here I have the ball, yes, I hope he will live" and Dr Wells took from the wound a small bullet, while he continued

"Now he needs the most careful nursing"

"He shall have it Thank God here comes Mr Jessop," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and telling the doctor to come on with the wonderful stranger to her brother's house Leone again mounted her horse and rode on to have all in readiness for his arrival

It was a week before the stranger was sufficiently recovered to tell his story regarding the wound that had so nearly proven fatal to him and then by careful nursing he informed Leone, who had been untiring in her devoted care of him, that his name was Clarence Ainslie—was an Englishman, who nearly a year before had come to America and purchasing a few acres of land in the west made it his home

He also stated that business had called him to New York, and that while enjoying a horseback ride he had been suddenly fired upon, was thrown to the ground and had an indistinct rememberance that some one was robbing him for his watch, pocket book and all the valuables he had about him were gone

That Clarence Ainslie was no ordinary man, Leone Lightfoot knew when she first saw him lying by the roadside, but that he would ever possess the power to control her life she had not believed

But so it was for each day proved to her that she had met her beau ideal, and yet was he for her? Might he not already have loved? Might he not already have married?

The thought chilled her very heart and yet, when she saw the dark fascinating eyes turned upon her with admiration and read—or hoped she did—therein a deeper holier feeling Leone felt happy, and longed to be a very slave and become a mere automaton to the caprice of Clarence Ainslie

Now, Arthur Lightfoot and his pretty wife looked upon the matter in a different light, for though hospitable in the extreme to the stranger guest they looked upon him as a poor English emigrant a petty western farmer and did not like the idea that he should wholly control the heart of Leone for they were not blind to her devotion to the wounded man

Still they could not but admire the courteous manner of their stranger guest when after six weeks he sufficiently recovered to join them in the parlor and at dinner

That he had been reared a gentleman was evident and that he had traveled and seen something of the world was also evident as was also that Mr and Mrs Lightfoot had never seen a handsomer man they were compelled to admit but that Leone the belle the heiress and most lovely woman of the day should love an unknown and poor Englishman—bah! the idea even was ridiculous

When the trunk of Clarence Ainslie arrived—for he had sent for it as soon as he was able to speak—Mrs Lightfoot peered around it for half an hour in the vain endeavor to find something of interest about it but the trunk was a good one English make and bore on it simply the letters C A England

With a disappointed look the inquisitive little woman ordered it sent to the sick man's room and sought her chamber

"Arthur, Leone really loves that wounded man and what will become of it all"

"It is Leone's romance little wife she will recover from it A few tears at parting, hard riding for her poor horse a few sentimental songs and all will be over

"But Arthur suppose it should not be suppose he should love her for you know he's poor and she's rich—what then?"

"Well he cannot have her that's all" And Arthur Lightfoot went out for a drive

At length the hour came for Clarence Ainslie to depart for no longer could he impose upon the kindness of his host and hostess and determined to leave that evening he asked to see Leone alone

With pale face but quiet manner the young girl entered the room and stepping forward Clarence Ainslie said, feelingly

"Miss Lightfoot, no longer can I impose upon your kindness and to night I leave you. Shall it be forever?"

No answer came, and the Englishman continued

"To you I owe my life and to you I would dedicate the years that yet remain I am unknown to you—a stranger in a strange land—and you have but my word for it that I offer you a love that never was offered to woman before a hand and heart that has never sinned intentionally against a fellow being Will you accept what I have to offer?

"I will"

"You will trust me take me as I am and become my wife?

"I will"

No other word was spoken but two hearts were perfectly happy

Of course, Arthur Lightfoot and his wife objected and decidedly refused, but Leone was determined It was no romance with her and when she flatly told them that she would marry Clarence without their consent, they made a virtue of a necessity and gave it, consoling themselves with the thought that after all his being a stranger and a poor man were really the only faults that they could find in him

At the request of the parties most interested it was quiet a wedding just six months after the meeting of the lovers, and Dr Wells and Farmer Jessop's family were only invited, and to this day the good old lady has not ceased to gossip about the magnificent trousseau the bride had, and the quiet happiness that shone in the eyes of the young couple

It had been decided that the bridal tour should be to Europe, as Clarence Ainslie said that business would call him there soon and Mr and Mrs Lightfoot had been persuaded to accompany them, so the day after the wedding the steamer bore a happy quartette from our shores

Arriving safely in England a few days were passed quietly at the hotel and then by an invitation by Clarence Ainslie the party started out to visit the spot where he had passed his boyhood's days

Through the meadow lands and lovely country the carriage drove, until suddenly Clarence, who was driving, wheeled into a grand gate way leading to the superb country seat of some man of wealth.

A few moments more, and the carriage drew up before the marble steps of an elegant mansion—one of those rambling structures found in England—and springing lightly to the ground the Englishman said, while a merry light twinkled in his eyes

"Leone, I welcome you to your home Mr and Mrs Lightfoot, Lord Clarence Ainslie begs that you will accept the hospitality of Ainslie Castle."

Tears filled the beautiful eyes of Leone Arthur Lightfoot's cheek colored, but he was silent, while, after a moment's hesitation, his wife exclaimed

"Clarence Ainslie you're a cheat Why, I thought you were a western farmer—"

"That was all the land I owned in America, I purchased it and built a shooting box thereon because I was fond of your western sport, and in America I was simply Mr Ainslie but here I am Lord Clarence of Ainslie castle Am I forgiven?

Reader, we all have too much human nature nowadays to for a moment suppose the deception practiced was not pardoned by one and all in fact Mrs Lightfoot says she likes to be deceived, and in this case Arthur echoes the opinion of his wife

The close of the calendar week finds business in a much more active state than at its beginning The supply of available funds is apparently as [illegible] as before but a little more caution or conservatism is [illegible] practiced by money lenders though [illegible] such precautions [illegible] offer first class [illegible] the usual rate [illegible] at the banks but [illegible] parties are [illegible] in their requirements [illegible] that at the same period in the season [illegible] two years past The merchants of Portland as well as those in other parts of the state [illegible] have no particular [illegible] be discouraged with the present condition or future prospect, their [illegible] wants being readily supplied with funds when wanted and trade for the season is reported unusually active A number of our jobbing and wholesale merchants during the past few days have received large orders from the interior to fill which has given matters along the street and wharves a very decided look of activity This is a period in the year's business when the expectations of briskness are not generally entertained and many dealers express themselves as agreeably surprised by the turn matters have taken the past two or three days The [illegible] of a [illegible] fall trade were never better and though prices for grain will probably average rather lower than last year the disbursements of [illegible] for the agricultural products in the State at large will probably be quite as extensive and have the effect to place the producing classes still more firmly in control of the business of the country

The New Bankruptcy Bill.

A Washington dispatch of June 18th says The following are the main points in the Bankrupt bill as agreed upon by the Conference Committee and passed in both Houses First—That fifty days default in payment of commercial paper are required instead of fourteen as under the existing law Second—That one fourth of the entire number of creditors and one third of the amount of debts must join in a petition for bankruptcy Third—That the new law shall apply to pending cases in bankruptcy instituted since December 1st when debts secured by suit shall have been paid or when a majority of creditors ask for a discontinuance Fourth—That a voluntary bankrupt shall be discharged upon payment of [illegible] per cent of his indebtedness Fifth—That a voluntary bankrupt shall be discharged when he shall have been proved innocent of any fraud Sixth—That fees and expenses of bankruptcy proceedings shall be reduced temporarily, until the Supreme Court shall establish a new system looking to a permanent reduction and simplification It is regarded as certain that the President will sign the bill

Miscellaneous.

There is a marked falling off in iron shipbuilding in Great Britain The number of that class of vessels built at all the ports of the country in January of the present year was only twenty nine with a gross register of [illegible] tons against forty seven registering [illegible] tons same month in 187[illegible] a decrease of eighteen steamships and 21 [illegible] tons In our own country this important industry was never in a more flourishing condition

It is reported that a very large store conducted by the Grangers will be opened in this city shortly and that a gentleman prominently connected with that institution is now purchasing a stock of goods for the purpose in the East

The demand for Pacific Coast Salmon is increasing in Australia Large shipments are now made by every steamer sailing from San Francisco The British steamer Cyphrenes which sailed June 21st had on board for Sydney and Melbourne [illegible] cases valued at $[illegible] the same forming the bulk of the cargo destined for Australia

The Hop market continues depressed It is now ascertained that the damage to the European crop is not so bad as at first reported The crop in the Atlantic States has escaped so far remarkably well the only damage reported being confined to a few districts in Central New York The crop in California is doing well and no complaints have reached us from any quarter From present appearances growers must be content to accept much lower prices than they received last year The receipts at New York since September 1 187[illegible] have been 21 1[illegible] bales domestic and 11 400 bales foreign against 22 700 bales domestic and 20 700 bales foreign for the same time in the previous season

There is an improved tone to the Coffee market based on a better feeling in New York and London and also in the primary markets A large portion of the supply expected from Central America has already been received and is in firm hands several lots being held The public offering of Java Coffee at Rotterdam on the 27th May showed an unusually strong market The lots catalogued brought good prices and were distributed among a large number of buyers thus indicating an active consumptive demand

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship John L Stephens for San Francisco sailed at noon to day carrying a few passengers and a fair freight list

The John L Stephens which sailed from this port for San Francisco at noon to day carried [illegible] qr sacks of flour 1481 sacks oats 10[illegible] bdls hoops 110 pkgs dried apples 212 boxes eggs [illegible] pkgs butter 6 bales furs 21 bdls skins 71 hides and [illegible] pkgs mdse
